LONDON, February 3rd. "The President of the Board of Trade" states that the demand of a small section of employes on the Underground and the London-Brighton Railways, who struck for the inclusion of meal time in an eight-hour day, is entirely unjustified, and contrary to the agreement reached between the Government and the Railway Unions in December.

The demand, if granted, would mean that these men would work only seven or 7h hours a day, and if this arrangement is extended to the other railways, it would reduce the working day to 6h hours in: some cases,

CORRESPONDENCE.

OUR HARBOUR.

[To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."]

Sir,-The point made by the Shipping Taipan interviewed by you, who

In addition to the attention which should be given the dredge ing of the harbour, there is room for a great deal of improvement in our wharfing situation - We need more wharves. There is room for their construction on the Victoria side of the harbour. And they should be operated under Government supervision. If The Government were to regulate wharf charges now, it would result in a vast betterment." hits the nail on the head absolutely, and it certainly, should have the prompt attention and scrutiny of the Government. There is indeed, great need for cheaper berthing facilities for vessels at the only public wharves available, and also into the exces-'sive charges' made for landing and storage of cargo, arriving and passing through this Port, but so long ne the present monopolistic clique dominate our Public Utilities, this grievance which is being heard on "all sides among Shipping Companies and Merchants, is not likely to be alleviated in the future, but aggravuted, as their monopolistic control becomes more consolidated, their only interest being that of Profiteers at the expense of the " Life's Blood" of the Port.

You will find, Sir, on closer enquiry that Shipping Companies complain bitterly of this state of affairs, but it's a case of " Hobson's Choice". with many in the quicker discharge at the Wharves than in the Stream; those who can avoid berthing at the Wharves do so and reduce their cost by at least 50 to 60 per cent. This is not as it should be and will in time be detrimental to this Port visia-vie adjacent Ports:

Why a monopoly should levy toll on a National Interest to the extent of the evidence of the last Balance. Sheet, I am Socialistic enough to think it high time the Government of Hongkong assumed control, for the future Trade and interests of this -important Colony

I am Dear Sir, Yours" faithfully, SOCIALISTIC INPERIALIST

His Honour, Sir William Rees, Davies will preside at a Lecture on Charles James Fox" by Mr. G. P. de Martin, M. A, at the Helena May Institute on Monday next. Jan. 10 at 5.30 p.m.

P. & O. MEETING.

Following is the full text of Lord Incheape's speech at the P. & O. meeting on Dec. 11:-The result of the year's operations, after providing for income-tax and excess profit duty, enables us to pay the same dividend as last year and to place, as we did a year ago, the sum of £50,000 to the contingent fund and £50,000 to the good service fund. In the amount of £5,822,568 hown as a liability there is included a considerable sum to meet the enhanced cost of building which we shall have to bear as soon as we are free to replenish our fleet, us it will be necessary to write off immediately a large amount from the cost of each new ship to bring it down to a reasonable figure. So far as we can see there will be great difficulty in working ships costing two or three times as much as they did before the war to yield a profit and to provide for depreciation on the cost and to keep our values at anything like a reusonable figure; it will be necessary to write down drastically the value of new shipe as soon is they are in the water. I feel satisfled this policy, which is one of prudence, will have the support of the shareholders. (Hear, hear.) ... Ludies and gentlemen, the old business of the P. and O. Company for some time past has not been what it was. For the last few months we have had only one ship running to India, all the others which are still affoat being employed as armed cruisers, dispatch vessels, hospital ships, transports, or carrying cargo on Government account. The passenger traffic have been greatly reduced, but we have maintained our office organization, and circumstances to accommodate the running to-day. There was an idea business, let us get to work again our ships and resources have been seclusion, where he will no doubt while maimed or incapacitated, have of the country. (Hear, hear.) HERESY ABOUT MUSIC.

Recently, we had in Hongkong indy musician who in one piece, that is to say, in one series of more or less agreeable noises, professed to tell the whole story of a man's life. Since then we have had the Russian performers, who have been conveying (according to our musical critic) equally extraordinary messages. permissible in a cold-blooded sort of way to ask if there isn't a mistake somewhere? Or even a bogus preinarticulate How can" communicate a sounds' How can sweet tones shythmically arranged do the work o! words?

We think it is all humbing. Not that we do not gajoy music; but that we have noticed how in changed conditions the same piece of music can "feet"us differently; and we are not peculiar. It seems obvious that various men would interpret a piece different ways, The composer thinks, let us say, of the present condition of Europe, and sits down to compose a piece to express it, or his thought of it. He will incorporate passages to represent echoes of hideous war, the unrest of the proletariat, the suffering of women and children, the pot-bellied complacence of politicians, the clink of money, and so on. That; mind you. is his seriously held idea of the possibilities of his art. . Very well. The piece is, played. In the audience and a jockey. They all look at their gurgling from a bottomless juga You see what we mean? Once, in a roadside inn, in an atmosphere of rank tobacco smoke and stale ale, we heard an unimportant young fellow sing a thing called "Hi-tiddlely-hiti-hi." It was understood to express the acme of joviality and bacchanalian joy. As we couldn't distinguish enunciation and breathing of account for our emotions, not yet forgotten. They were deeply religious in quality, and full of that sense of the unworthiness of carnal and material pleasures which leads to aspiration and moral endeavour. This is a serious and truthful statement. Not a joke.

It is curious that music should be so respectable, since analysis (and our theory as just outlined) show it to be a purely sensual thing, with novel of sensation. A time-passing device, with agreeable thrills. Perhaps someone will say, But what about religious music? Recalcitrant we answer, Well, what? Is there any music that is intrinsically religious? If so, what about Wesley's idea that the Devil should not have all the good tunes? What about the Salvation Army music? No, no. We suppose the so-called religious music to be only conventionally so. The word, is derived from the Greek and the Greek word embraced all: arts under the Muses that were not "gymnastic.". Mathematics were music to the Greeks; so were love, a man with acute indigestion, poetry and astronomy. It distina man who has just lost £10,000 on guished mental development as opa man with a posed to physical. This would make hob-nailed liver, a religious man, it appear that the Greeks are against us in our contention that music they see some makes no appeal to mind; but doesn't. They knew nothing of the complicated tricks with sound that anyone suppose that the mental we call music. Imitations of natural sounds, of course, might tell a tale. The idea of a storm, of a chicken are not mistaken, the basis of it was Once when John Dunn, the Eng. farm, even of singing birds, might in "Milliard's Review "two months convey pathee, but Handel could do the same thing in the major, they tell us. It is all convention, just as language is, but language has developed usefully, while inusic at most is only beginning. We believe there, is sincerity in the musician who believes himself to be expressing an emotion. So he is. He is expressing, in his own way, his own emotion. What we say is that he cannot guarantee to convey or transfer that emotion to others. A Frenchman may tell a London guttersnipe that he is " malheureuse " and mean it and feel it, but the child will only laugh. A boozy man going home late expresses his happiness in hoars yells, which signify that he is care free and that all the world is a jolly good fellow. But if you couldn't see him, and had only the noise to go by, you would suppose that he was being gaiotted by armed robbers. That's music."

The Encyclopædia Britann'en which, to be sure, knows more than we do, says that " while the languorganized as to be 'n it off natural so that the listener will best Tearn to undhestand "it by me gly livesting his mind of prejudices and allowing the music to make itself intelligible by its own self-consistency." So far as we are concerned, that's fudge, probably a musician's fudge. Real language is v creation of art, perfectly organized. but to understand it the Ditener hi first to learn it. It is only intiff! igible" when he knows the "correct symbols for things. Music has no such comprehensive quantity of symbols, and it is so little "natural that any three natural men will have three meanings for the same piece. A picture can atell a story, but no mere collocation of colou s can; is the drawing, the form, that conveys the message. We ches music with colour in that way. Musical language is better than unnins cal, but a pleasant jingle of Mesopotaminn words without lider in them do not make literature. The Book of Job is better than Tempson's "In Memoriam," and I Router's telegrum is more intelligible to the nominal mind than a Mendelssohn "song without words." Even then, if any local champion of music thinks all this wrong, we'll give him space to present the contrary view. We cannot say more fairly than who will lose their jobs when England that, can we? We shall expect him reforms itself. He is too clever. He ground largely absorbed local sportthe words, owing to the peculiar to explain why, if music is a langu- told a lady detective she must not was good. singer, we had only the melody to their debates, instead of speechify-

HONGKONG IN THE EIGHTIES.

BY GERSHOM STEWART, M.P.

I am pleased to contribute a few lines of reminiscences of my life in Hongkong. I remember "leaving Dover one very dark and blowy night toward the end of 1882 in a small paddle-boar, which made a very lively crossing. We joined the old P.& O. steamer Pounah at Brindisi. She was a square-rigged vessel, the last vessel with "yards" I ever travelled on. How dim the old ships were compared with present-day mail steamers! I look upon the electric light as one of the greatest improvements in the comfort of modern travel. What a happy change from the oil lamp, which was the only one available in 1832.

Mr. James Orange was a fellow passenger. He was coming out to build the Tytam Water Works, which he successfully accomplished before leaving the Government service. mail steamer took eight or nine days ance for civilian clothes for a breakdowns in the engines, and there was no "wireless" in those days, so we found the colony a little anxious as to what had happened. In due course I reported my arrival at the old Hongkong Bank, where I my afterwards well-beloved friend, Mr. Jackson, or rather the great T. He was then a young and active man, adding daily to the reputation he then enjoyed, and which he steadily added to for the next quarter of a century. The old bank premises in Hong'cong were very dark and small To-day's "Canton Times" gives and dingy when we compare them with the present palatial quarters which I expect the bank is now probably outgrowing.

It is sometimes not realised that the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, addition to being the greatest British commercial institution east to Suez, has been for over thirty years without doubt the greatest political asset for the British Empire China and throughout the Far East, and long may it continue to increase and flourish in that respect. One of the things that struck me very forcibly on my arrival was the healthy, vigorous appearance of all the Europeans. One had heard a a good deal about the bad climate of Hongkong; but at my first dance in the City Hall I particularly noticed this. Ladies were then much fewer in number than they are now, and every dancing lady was surrounded by a crowd of suppliants for her . We stood in queues for then, as we stand queues for butter now. Those days for were great and matches were followed with the acutest interest. There was no golf, no polo, no sailing, no new territory to go over to, and little tennis at that time. The cricket

Rowing in my early days was very fashionable, and the old V.R.C. Boat Club and Swimming Bath were very much frequented between October and Christmas. The Regatta used to be held before Christmas, no doubt to let us go out of training before plum-pudding time arrived.

It is one of the proudest recollections which I treasure that the Scotch Four won the International Challenge Cup outright by winning the Interna-tional Races in 1883 and 1884. There were only four Scotsmen rowing in those two Regattas, the crew was the same on both occasions—Mr. Glass, Mr. Goodlad, Sir James Stewart Lockhart, and myself. There were English, Welsh, Irish and German. crews against us. How we managed to win I do not offer to explain, but I remember we worked awfully hard to do it. In any case, he adopted an antagonistic attitude towards them, and was in turn hated by the strong German interests at that time existing.

If he can look down from the other world upon the present one, he can at least claim to having warned us: amply about German characteristics. In this connection it is only fair to say that the older generation of Germans who had come out long before the Huns began to sing." During the period of German expansion we expanded also by acquiring the new territory. It entailed slight military operations, which our transport arrangements wate somewhat strained. GERMAN SHIPPING.

All German shipping having pass ed under the control of the Allies in conformity with a decision of the inpreme War Council arrived at last week, it will doubtless be of interest to summarise from numerous articles on the subject which have appeared in well-informed British journals during the war, facts and figures bearing on the subject. A comparatively recent semi-off of the German Mercantile Marine. which, prior to the war, amounted to 5,450,000 tons indicated that it. had been reduced to about 2,559,000 tons through losses of various kinds. To this total of 2,559,000 the contpiler of the estimate added 674,833 tons for vessels interned in neutral It is probable that this latter figure should be considerably reduced, for it is, seemingly, the total tonnage known to be in neutral ports. at the time of the commencement of hostilities, and it is a well established fact that some of the vesselswere surreptitiously fitted out as raiders, coming, in the course of their nefurious cureers before long toartter grief through their inability toescape the vigitance of British and other warships and armed cruisers. According to some authoritiesthere were 1,550,206 tons of Germani shipping in German ports at the close of host lities, and at that time there was added to the total 050,000 tons for new ressels, which included new Hamburg-America Co. liners of 56,000 tors and 82,000 tons, respectively; three cargo. steamers of 22,000 tons-each, as well: us four vessels built to the order of the Norddeutscher Lloyd, i.e., twomail and passenger steamers of 35,000 tons each and two freighters of 16,000 tons each.

It seems," therefore, that if the total tonnage of the German Mercantile Marine is stated to be notmore than 2,500,000 it will be found that we have not given the Huns credit for much more than they possessed when hostilities ended in November with signing of the termsof the amistice imposed upon them, not terms, be it noted, which weeither proposed or were ready to discuss with the vanquished foe.

Germany's 2,500,000 tons of shipping represents only a very small portion of the losses she inflicted with her submarines upon the shipping of Great Britain, her Allies, and neutrals, and it stands to reason. therefore, that if, as an act of ordinary justice, she is compelled by the terms of the peace settlement tomake good ton-for-ton not only will the shipping she has now to surrender to our control pass out of German possession in the near future. but several years will elapse before she has been compelled to atone to a moderate extent for her foul deeds on the high seas, for a great many vessels will have to be built in German yards by German workmen at. Gemnany's expense in order that her obligations be duly-discharged. If we mistake not several German Dutch Indies ports on news of Great Britain's declaration of war against Germany reaching these shores in August, 1914. They are probably there at the present time. Some of the vessels that rushed away at top speed were, if we remember neight, engaged in the Singapore-Bangkols trade, while others were trading regularly between this Colony and Borneo. Others, too, were approaching Singapore from Australia and Europe and had reached Sabang or its vicinity when they got news which led their commanders to seek safety in internment in neutral waters. NEW SHIPS FOR OLD.

A Kokusai-Reuter telegram dated Washington, January 16, to Japans papers reported that in place of ships which are retained for army purposes and which have been outfitted for transportation of troops, the owners will receive ton-for forr, in vessels built and owned by the Government. In addition to the return of the requisitioned ships replacements thirty-jour steamers of 275,194 deadweight tons owned by the Shipping Board have been allocated to the various lines for operation in American ande, so the Shipping Board has announced.

The report of the Board on Janufary 9 showed that under requisition. 248 American ships of a total of 1,219,283 gross tons were taken over. Of these possibly 75 are in the service of the War Department as troopsupply ships or transports.

P. AND O. MEETING.

You can form an idea of Government control means by look ing at an order published in papers of November 20 by a Department on the subject of petrol. (Laughter.) I will not quote it all but will read an extrach :--

. 1. This Order may be cited as the Motor Spirst (Consolidation) and Gas Restriction Order, 1919, Amendment Order No. 2, and shall be read and construed together with the Motor Spirit (Consolidation) and Clasand the Motor Spirit (Consolidation) able a position as most of our rivals. and Gas Restriction, Order, 1918. We may for a fine have high prices, Amendment Order, hereinafter refer- but they will be world prices; and red to as the Amendment Order No. the energy, the industry, and the together as the Motor Spirit and Gas will see us through peace, just as they Restriction Orders, 1918. FUTURE CONTROL OF S. PACIFIC.

Considerable feeling exists in Aus tralia concerning the future control of the Southern Pacific. A report has just been issued by a Commission appointed by the Federal Government to investigate the Pacific Island trade.

.The object of the Commission was threefold, viz., an inquiry into the existing trade between Australia and the Pacific Islands; the furnishing of a report to decide as to the increase of British and or Australian control of that trade; and the suggestion of measures to that end.

As to the natural products and exports of the islands at present, the main interest lies in the copra trade. The Commission's inquiry, however, covers the potential trade in other products which may result from the future development of the islands. The trade question alone concerns the Commission. Any readjustment of administration in these islands under British control is subject for the Imperial Government in the discussion of peace terms, in regard to which it is known that the Commonwealth Government will be consulted.

It may be remembered that, al though it is an incontrovertible fact that to the Spaniards and the Dutch belongs the honour of the discovery of the Pacific Islands, the British are the pioneers in the matter of their trade and civilization. To the activities, too, of our missionaries and Governmental services may be ascribed the partial redemption of the island from barbarism.

The administration of to-day, however, is a vast improvement upon that conducted in the past. everything emphasizes the necessity for Great Britain, making good throughout this wide sphere of har finfluence, her world right as conserving influence over countries she has acquired in every instance by peaceful means.

The commercial value of Pacific is important; far more important in some ways than most people imaging, although the island; are not as fabulously rich, natural resources as the romance encircling them would lead to suppose. New Caledonia, however, possesses valuable minerals, while the phosphate deposits of Nauru and Ocean Island are worth many goldfields, The commercial, and doubtless the strategic, importance of the islands as ports of call is obvious," lying, as they do, on the trade routes between the East and Australasia, and between Australasia

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsul during the years 1909-9.

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty Chart, which has been found to be 4 feet inches below mean sea-level To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard Macao, Capt. Assumpeac, G.I. Co., I INAHO MARU, Jap., 8 am., for add 3 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 4 inches to the height given in the table.
